Membership Update

Submitted by Al Weber, NRHS President

NRHS members and chapters are a diverse group – we are from many geographic regions, live within varied proximity to rail lines (trans-continental to short lines, commuter to light rail and trolleys, enjoy the hobby in different ways and scales (prototype, garden to N scale). What brings us together – our camaraderie, shared spirit and same interests in preserving railroad history.

The National Railway Historical Society offers its members and chapters several benefits, tangible and intangible. Being a large, recognized national organization has its advantages as well. For example, the NRHS has received special consideration from large railroads at several national conventions.

- Annual National Convention. The 2016 convention in Denver, Colorado included three major train trips (one with rare mileage, of interest to our mileage collectors), one day with transit and cultural tours, plus twelve historical seminars, a banquet, and organizational meetings. Our convention in 2017 will be held in Nashville, Tennessee on June 20 – 24, 2017.
- Heritage Grants. In 2016, the NRHS awarded grants for $35,000. Grants for over $100,000 were requested. Grant requests from Chapters are given extra consideration, but are not guaranteed to receive funding.
- RailCamp, sponsored/supported by the NRHS. RailCamp allows young people to experience all things railroad – historical and modern. There are 36 slots, and sold out in 2016. Railroads and museums in the northeast and northwest also support the camp and help make the camp possible. (Continued on p. 2)

- NRHS Board Meetings (three/year). All members are welcome at the Board of Directors' Meeting and the Advisory Council Meeting. Chapter members get their voices heard by sending representatives to the Advisory Council meetings.
- Publications – NRHS Bulletin, NRHS News, NRHS Telegraph. NRHS maintains open communications with our members through print and online publications.

The full-color NRHS Bulletin is sent twice annually via postal-mail to members. The NRHS News is provided to members through email and postal mail. Six NRHS News issues (full-color, usually thirty plus pages) are distributed annually to members online through the NRHS web site. Additionally, two NRHS News issues (printed, eight pages) are postal-mailed to members as well. Six issues of the NRHS Telegraph are (4 pages each) distributed annually online with news on upcoming meetings, projects, grants and more. Publications are available to members at the NRHS web site, administration section (<https://admin.nrhs.com/>).

We hope to be able to send additional postal-mailed issues, as our finances allow. For our members without email, Chapter members frequently have additional friends / contacts to receive the emailed issues of our publications. In addition, minutes from our meetings, financial records, and Federal 990 reports are available to all our members online at <https://admin.nrhs.com/>. The NRHS believes in openness with our members and, as such, you always have access to me and other officers of the NRHS.

- Discount Program. NRHS members receive discounts at many railroad attractions, museums, and tourist railroads throughout the country. A list of participating organizations is provided on the NRHS web site (NRHS.com).
- NRHS Library. NRHS maintains a large library of historical documents and a film library; both are available to chapters and members.

Film library. Any NRHS Chapter can borrow films from the library at no cost – except for the shipping of the films. We are also working on converting unique 8 mm and 16mm films to more modern media to make the films more accessible to the railfan community. Many of these films are one of a kind and help railroad history. Chapters use this resource for meetings that are unique since they are not the standard published railroad films and DVDs.

Railroad history library. NRHS maintains a large library of historical documents from many car and locomotive builders, as well as planning documents from railroads and transit systems around the country. This library is available to our members for research.

- NRHS Fund. The NRHS Fund is working on a national plan to obtain donations for local railroad preservation projects. As a national organization, we have a large number of members to support a project, beyond the limited size or resources of a local group.

In addition to the larger benefits above, the NRHS assists members and chapters through research, outreach, and other services.

NRHS volunteers assist with research of railroad history. Members and chapters have used this unique resource to document railroad history to local governments to preserve items.

Outreach to the rail enthusiast and history community is easier with the NRHS. From Facebook, to e-mail distribution and postal mailing, the NRHS can reach a broader audience than most local groups.

Individuals are allowed to photograph trains from a public right-of-way – but NOT from private property. Occasionally, there are conflicts between members and local law enforcement.

When the need arises, the NRHS has a volunteer attorney who assists these conflicts with guidance on the legality of public photography.

The NRHS is involved with the major railroads to assist local chapters with railroad preservation projects and as a national interface with the local chapter. We are currently in discussions with several railroads not only about preservation but also about activities that promote the NRHS and the railroad to the public. As part of a large national system, the NRHS and chapters get a better audience than a local group would. This two way conversation benefits the railroad and the NRHS. As noted in internal publications, railroads recognize the NRHS as a very special partner.
